XIX International is currently managing leading general trade companies in Dubai and Asia Pacific, and with next year's plan to expand to the United States, the firm is focusing on connecting with clients in Texas for petroleum trading business.

As a trade management consulting firm, XIX International has an extensive supply chain network in global markets for precious commodities. Petroleum and pharmaceutical products are the world's most traded and demanded commodities, and these products are the exact business target focus for XIX International to push more in 2024.

Partners, Paulius Stankevicius and Swapnadip Roy are leading XIX International to global market expansion plan with a strategy called people driven consulting where professional consultants solve international problems that clients face in the global trade sector.

About XIX International
